They Will Cause Some Starving
Among the Poor.

But the Traders Say They Must Protect Themselves.

The Bread Weight Was Reduced Without a Warning Word.

Listen now to the plaint of the poor. From a low muttering it has grown to a savage cry of indignation. They revolt, wrathfully, against the increase in the price of their bread, and the reduction in the weight of the loaves; but how futile is their rebellion!
They must eat bread. Meat might be done without, but bread they must have.

Bread, which has already been reduced in weight from two to four ounces, and which promises to be reduced as much more next week, while it is at the same time increased a cent or two in price.

This is not the work of the poorer bakers, either.

On the contrary, it was the large bread-makers who were the first to cut to cutting down the weight of the poor man's loaf.

In many instances they did not think it even necessary to notify their customers of the reduction in weight. They serve their bread principally to grocers, who sell on an average from fifty to seventy-five loaves a day. Some of these tradesmen discovered the reduction in the weight of the bread a week ago. Others again did not know it until informed by an EVENING WORLD reporter.

Following the example set by the wealthier dependents on the trade, the poor, those who did not find out how much lighter the bread had grown said nothing about it to their customers.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET 1889

JOEL B. ERHARDT
FOR MAYOR

HENRY C. PERLE
COUNTY CLERK

JOHN W. JACOBUS
FOR SHERIFF

POWERLESS TO WITHDRAW.

Mayor Hewitt Hides Behind the Citizens and Says He Can't Decide.

Up to noon to-day the Committee representing the Downtown Business Men's Club and Thurman Club had not called upon Mayor Hewitt and Sheriff Grant to ask them to withdraw from the Mayoralty race in the interest of harmony and a united Democratic ticket.

Sheriff Grant said he was still willing to withdraw if Mayor Hewitt would consent to get out of the race. The Sheriff further remarked that he was certain of election, but would gladly make the sacrifice if it would help the National and State tickets.

An EVENING WORLD reporter asked Mayor Hewitt this afternoon what answer he would give to the Committee from the Downtown Business Men's Club if they should ask him to withdraw.

The Mayor glanced up from a pile of letters on his desk and replied in rather surly tones: "I will not answer by hypothetical questions, but I will say now as I said the other day that the matter has gone beyond my control. If the citizenry would make nomination are willing to withdraw me I shall be glad of it, but it is for them to decide, not for me."

Mayor Hewitt also denied that he had asked to have his name proposed for membership in the Harlem Democratic Club. He said that a gentleman named Wilkes had asked permission to propose him for membership, and he had given his consent.

The Tammany Hall Notification Committee will to-night tender Sheriff Grant the Wigwam nomination for Mayor.

The vote that James J. Coogan will poll for Mayor is worrying the County Democracy and Tammany Hall leaders. It is variously estimated by the politicians at from 12,000 to 25,000. Mr. Coogan and his friends laugh at these figures. Mr. Coogan says he will poll 100,000 votes.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

Guests at the Hotel Panic-Stricken, but All Escape—Deport Burned.

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—The Vandana freight house in East St. Louis took fire at an early hour this morning and before engines from this city could reach the river, was beyond control.
The East St. Louis Hotel, which was filled with people, was badly damaged. There was a panic among the guests, but all escaped without injury.

There were fifteen freight cars and 300 bales of cotton destroyed.
The total loss will aggregate $75,000.

QUINN HOLDS THE FORT.

Judge Stecker Sustains Him in His Seizure of Pythagoras Hall.

Master Workman James E. Quinn, of District Assembly 49, having secured possession of Pythagoras Hall by virtue of an order issued by Justice Stecker, appeared before the latter this morning with his counsel, Leitch E. Post.

Lawyer Unger appeared for the anti-Quinn faction, but did not present any evidence.
Mr. Post asked for a dismissal of the proceedings taken by the court, and Justice Quinn and his party were dismissed and required to vacate Pythagoras Hall.

It was claimed by Quinn's counsel that the dispossession was obtained through collusion by John Nolan and Michael Breslin.

The Court sustained Mr. Post and dismissed the proceedings against Quinn, who is to-day in possession of the property.
Lawyer Unger took exception to the decision of the Court, and will probably appeal the case to the upper Court.

All is quiet around Pythagoras Hall to-day.
Quinn occupied his old office, and Secretary Kunze has his former quarters.
The safe had been drilled, and the combination lock torn from its place. The deeds, mortgage and insurance policies were found lying on a chair in the Secretary's room, but the records books of the Assembly were missing.

The Anti-Quinnites promise a coup d'etat shortly, and assert that they will again oust Quinn from the building.

HER JEWELS BROUGHT BACK.

"THE EVENING WORLD'S" REPORT THE MEANS OF THEIR RETURN.

They Were Stolen from Her on the Street—A Colored Lad Took Them to the Hotel To-Day and Sold Them for Her at a Place Where Mrs. Nicholls Had Not Been—Got a Reward and Disappeared.

Mrs. A. L. Nicholls, of Washington, who was robbed of some valuable family jewels, an exclusive account of which was published in yesterday's EVENING WORLD, recovered her lost gems this morning in a somewhat unexpected manner.

A young colored man came to the Westminster Hotel, where Mrs. Nicholls was staying at the time with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Roselle, of the Arlington Hotel at Washington, late last evening, and told Mr.
Schenck, the proprietor, that he knew where the missing jewels were and would give them up if he could get a reward for them.

He would not give his name or tell where he got the missing property, and his actions were so suspicious that Mr. Schenck felt sure that he had not found them as he said.

But as the principal object was to get back the gems, he told the boy that he would not be in any danger of arrest, and that he should bring them out in the morning. Mrs. Nicholls had gone over to Brooklyn to spend the night with some friends, and that everything would be settled satisfactorily, including the reward.

Accordingly, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning, the young man made his appearance again, and Mrs. Nicholls was on hand to receive him.

She saw him in the private reception-room where the jewels, which were in a little pink pasteboard box just as when she last saw them, were returned to her and the alleged finder received his reward and quickly made himself scarce.

"I remember now," said Mrs. Nicholls to the EVENING WORLD reporter soon after,
"I sent the boy to the hotel and he went out shopping with my friends on Wednesday morning, so I could not have lost them in the hotel."

"In fact, I never thought they were lost there."

"I am certain that my pocket was picked, for when I questioned the young man about it, he said that he had seen the jewels in Irving place and Twenty-third street, and I have not passed that corner since I have been in town."

"I think the story in THE EVENING WORLD yesterday telling how I had been to see Inspector Byrnes, and that all the pawnbrokers in town had been warned, must have frightened the thief, though whether he was the same I cannot say."

"At any rate I am delighted to get my jewels again, and while thanking THE EVENING WORLD for what it has done for me, I only hope it will be able to find out who the thief was, and not I cannot say."

Mrs. Nicholls received a telegram from the Washington Post last night requesting her to be interviewed by the editor of the Post and Washington address. Of course, she didn't do it.

HARLEM ASSOCIATION REGATTA.

To-Day's Events Are of Special Interest in Sporting Circles.

The attention of all the sportsmen in this vicinity is engaged this afternoon by the annual Fall regatta of the Harlem Association, which is always an important event in sporting circles. This year it is particularly interesting on account of the unusual number of entries and the general excellence of the various regattas.

The events upon the programme are as follows:

Senior Singles for the Diamond Sculls—O. J.
Stevens, Union C. G. Club, New York Athletic Club; James F. McKim, and W. Goodbody, of the Metropolitan.

Four-oared Shell for the Grand Challenge Cup—Atlantic, Union, Nonpareil and Metropolitan.

Four-oared Shell for Ladies' Challenge Cup—Fair-O-Race, New York Rowing Club, Metropolitan, Union, Nonpareil, Atlantic, and Havenswood and Union.

Junior Single Sculls—O. J. Stevens, Nassau;
Junior Single Sculls—O. J. Stevens, Nassau;
Junior Single Sculls—O. J. Stevens, Nassau;

Special interest centres in the eight-oared shell race. The crew of the New York Athletic Club in this time composed mainly of members of the old Haverwood eight, who have recently joined the New Yorks, while the Haverwoods have organized a brand-new eight, with the exception of Capt. Frank Connelley, who is captain of the new team, and is prepared to put his best foot forward in the present contest.

In the senior singles, the entry of C. G.
Patterson, of the Nassau, New York Athletic Club, will lead additional interest to that event.
Besides the Harlem River clubs, there are representatives from Union, Nonpareil, Metropolitan, and Havenswood.

The wind blew the smoke in her face, and she inhaled some of it. A little further on she met two drunken men, and being of a timid nature was very much frightened.
The smoke was passing over her head, and she had an almost uncontrollable desire to cough, which she choked down for fear of attracting their attention. A little further on she fell unconscious.

She was carried home and a physician summoned, who pronounced the trouble conclusion of the lungs produced by the suppressed cough.

Miss Stillman grew worse during the night and died Friday morning.

OUTGOING PASSENGERS.

Among the passengers on the outgoing steamships to-day were Chevalier John Good, the rope manufacturer; C. A. Foster and family and Gen. and Mrs. Brook Postley, a Butler Duncan, Rev. Dr.
Nevin, Sir Donald Smith, Arnold C. Spatoris, M.
Wormser and Macdonald Cameron, M. P., on the Comet; the Baroness von Steinwehr on the Elder; Commodore William and Viscount de Bismarck on the Normandie.

Thomas H. Williams Dead.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 13.—While returning home from a neighbor's house on Thursday evening Miss Annette Stillman, twenty-eight years of age, of Westerly, encountered a political parade for which red fire was being burned.

The wind blew the smoke in her face, and she inhaled some of it. A little further on
she met two drunken men, and being of a timid nature was very much frightened.
The smoke was passing over her head, and

A MIGHTY HOST.

Wall Street Turns Out Grandly for Cleveland.

Over One Hundred Business Men's Clubs in Line.

Mammoth Demonstration in Front of the Sub-Treasury Building.

Speaker Carlisle and Secretary Fairchild Address a Great Throng.

The rumor that the demonstration of the Downtown Business Men's Club and Thurman clubs was to be again postponed because the weather was too fine was denied at the Stevens House headquarters and all the exchanges this morning, where there were the greatest scenes of activity.

Solid men who never get excited were flitting about with fancy badges in many colors and much gold embroidery, and there was but one thought in their heads.

It was the Sub-Treasury meeting and the preliminary parade. No one would put the number of voters who would appear in the parade at 1:30 this afternoon at less than 20,000, and the figures for each Club or Association ran from 200 to 2,000.

At the Sub-Treasury workmen were engaged in making that gloomy old structure bud and blossom as the rose in flags and bunting.

A platform running along the entire length of the Wall Street front was decked with flags and bunting. The Stars and Stripes surrounded the front of the platform, capped with crimson velvet embroidered in gold, which was hoisted and festooned gracefully.

Their audience was to be made up of the solid business men, who were energetic, industry and sagacity the city is indebted for their wealth of stately buildings.

Never before in any political campaign did the solid business men take such a heartfelt interest as they evince this year, and this morning almost every man met on the streets was a Cleveland, Thurman and Fairchild supporter.

The sky was bright and the streets were drying up in a most encouraging way, and everything in nature was propitious. The demonstration was to be a big thing, everybody agreed.

At 1 o'clock the various clubs who were to participate in the parade assembled at their assigned rendezvous, and each club formed in front of its meeting place and the files marched in distances of eleven feet apart.

The clubs formed as follows:

Coffee Exchange—O. J. Herter, Marshal; Wall Street, right on Broadway.

Wines and Spirits—M. L. Loefer, Marshal; Wall

WILL THE MAYOR HOIST IT?

THE QUESTION OF THE FLYING PENNANT STILL UNANSWERED.

A Reporter Who Hears the Hall of Petitioners to the Municipal Auditor Didn't Meet a Cheerful Reception—His Honor Takes Possession of the Paper and Will Answer the Signers.

Mayor Hewitt wanted documentary evidence to the effect that the citizens of this town desired to have the championship pennant, won by the New York Baseball Club this year, hoisted on the City Hall.

John Blakely, the well-known cigar merchant in Broadway, voluntarily started a petition of the same sort and A. G. Spalding & Co. displayed another in their store, bearing the same request to "Hoist that Flag."

Although the petitions were not started until a late hour in yesterday's sloppy afternoon, at 10 o'clock this morning over a quarter of a thousand signatures had been obtained.

The different petitions were pasted together and an EVENING WORLD reporter bore them to the Mayor's office, and addresses expecting to gain His Honor's consent and approval, or if not that at least a polite refusal.

At the time the reporter arrived the Mayor was engaged, but in a short half hour His Honor came out from his private audience chamber and glanced about inquiringly.

The reporter approached, and in a few brief words stated his business.

"Where is this petition?" the Mayor demanded in tones not dulcet.

It was duly presented and then, after glancing at the first few lines, the municipal auditor asked, pointedly, but ungrammat-ically:

"Who does this thing belong to? It's addressed to me, ain't it?"

"It is, sir."

"Well, then, I'll answer the petitioners."

And almost before this declaration he hurled itself against the reportorial symposium His Honor had slammed the document down upon the desk and turned to receive another caller.

The first name on the list of petitioners was that of John Blakely, the next is the signature of Spalding Bros., and on the third is written John Ackerman, of 2-2 Broadway.

To one of these gentlemen, probably the first named, the Mayor will address his reply.

POLICEMAN TURNED PICKPOCKET.

Officer John Cullen, of Brooklyn, Robs a Woman on the Street in New York.

John Cullen, a young man, who said he was a Brooklyn Twelfth Precinct policeman, living at 28 Hersham street, was held for examination at the Tombs this morning on a charge of picking the pocket of Charles Schmidt, a steamboat man. Officer Van Hout, of the New York steamboat squad, saw the robbery, which took place while Schmidt was asleep on a seat in the Catharine ferry.

Schmidt had a roll of bills amounting to $12 which Cullen took from his pocket. Van Hout had been watching Cullen, who had acted suspiciously.

When the officers arrested Cullen the latter pleaded to be released, saying: "I am the same as you," meaning that he was a policeman. Afterwards he moaned: "What was my mother?"

At the Tombs he said he mistook Schmidt for a friend with whom he had been drinking.

The Secretary Fairchild, who had been on the force only a few months. He has resigned since his arrest.

The Airplane in a Big Gale.

Commander J. G. Cameron, of the White Star steamer Atlantic, which arrived at her dock this morning at 9 o'clock, reports that on Oct. 9, while in latitude 35.53 and longitude 49.14, he passed through an electric storm which lasted for three hours. It was accompanied by thunder and lightning and was of such a nature that it was followed by cold weather during the next day.

An Artist Takes Lend-Lease.

Morris Nagard, a French artist, rented a room from L. C. Schaffner, of 57 West Third street.
This morning Mr. Schaffner heard groans issuing from Nagard's room and he broke open the door.
He found the occupant lying unconscious on the floor, his head against the wall, and his arms outstretched. He was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Albany Switchmen Win Their Fight.

ALBANY, Oct. 13.—The blockade in the New York Central yards here caused by the switchmen's strike is being raised. The company has succeeded yesterday in persuading an orderly body of men to return to work, and the yards are now open.

LAST EDITION. FEARS OF DYNAMITE

Chicago Again in a Turmoil Over the Strike.

Yerkes's Actions Render a Settlement Almost Impossible.

Police Sent to the North Side to Quell a Threatened Riot.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13, 1 P. M.—A serious riot is now reported to be in progress on the North Side.

All the available police have been sent over in patrol wagons.

No settlement has been reached with the North-Side strikers.

Tremendous excitement prevails throughout the city.

1:30 P. M.—The large detail of police is now said at headquarters to have been sent north to prevent a threatened riot.

Fears of more dynamite are rife.

Three men concerned in placing that on Sedgwick and Schiller streets were held for the Grand Jury this morning.

An extensive conspiracy is alleged by the police to exist.

The conference for arrangement of terms for the settlement of the North side strike will amount to nothing, because Yerkes insists upon retaining his men.

He has hired enough to supply the places of half the men out.

GOV. HILL IN INDIANA.

Had Weather, but the Enthusiasm Is So-ething Very Remarkable.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 13.—Col. Jim Jones has been forced to throw away that hind right foot of a graveyard rabbit that he brought along with him to cast a charm over Gov. Hill's fortunes in visiting Indiana.

Gov. Hill's reception along the line of his route yesterday was a series of ovations. His speech at Indianapolis last night was received with the most uproarious demonstrations of satisfaction.

This morning the Governor left the capital of Indiana at 8 o'clock and made the run to Lafayette, sixty-seven miles, in less than two hours.

The Governor spoke at the Rink this afternoon before an audience of 4,000. He was followed by Geo. Raines who has made a decided impression in this State as a campaign orator.

An overflow meeting was addressed at the same time by Secretary of State Cook, who delighted the members of the Governor's party and inhabitants of this town by speaking in German.

The start for home will be made at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning, arriving in Buffalo late to-morrow evening, and Albany at 6:30 Monday morning.

ALL TOGETHER, ROADSCULLERS.

Prices Are to Be Won, and This Is the Last Day of the Race.

The scores of the leaders in the six-day roadsculler race at Madison Square Garden was as follows at midnight:

Gaudaur, 419 miles; Ross, 411 miles 6 laps; Plattard, 404 miles; McKay, 396 miles 1 lap; Bulwer, 353 miles 4 laps; Hamm, 342 miles 3 laps.

Jako Gaudaur covered 52 miles 3 laps yesterday, the best for the day. The race for first place seemed to be between Gaudaur
